RABBI'S REFLECTIONS: The Strange Place of Shavuot

Rabbi Michael Rascoe

Shavuot (Festival of Weeks/Pentecost) is a strange holiday. The Bible sets no date for this middle pilgrimage festival. We count the Omer (sheaf) 49 days after the "sabbath" of Pesah, then begin Shavuot. The rabbis set the date by saying the "sabbath" of Passover means the first day of Pesah and then make Rosh Hodesh (New Moon) one or two days, so Shavuot always falls on 6 Sivan. We commemorate Torah's revelation on Shavuot, but do not rejoice until Simhat Torah (which technically is a medieval holiday.) Why place Shavuot between Pesah and Simhat Torah?

Pesah, solemnizing our liberation from bondage, reminds us that we were both physical and spiritual slaves before redemption. We need time to process. So, we count the Omer from Pesah until Shavuot. This way, we realize that human interaction requires us to submit voluntarily to rules.

Shavuot also can mean oaths, so S'fat Emet (Rabbi Yehudah Aryeh Leib Alter of Ger, 1847-1905) says the Talmud (Shavuot 21b) means that the Jews on Sinai swore an irrevocable oath to bind all Jews to Torah. S'fat Emet writes that from Pesah to Shavuot we clarify our relationship to God. We become God's servants and pledge to serve God with our physical instincts and abilities on Pesah, but not until Shavuot do our souls, our intellectual faculties, spiritual instincts, and abilities submit to God.

Having finally agreed to follow God and God's laws, why do we celebrate the marriage on Shavuot but wait until Simhat Torah to rejoice? The Maggid of Dubno (Rabbi Ya'akov ben Z'ev (Wolf) Kranz, 1741-1804,) tells a parable: Once a great king had everything but children. After doctors could not help, a friend suggested visiting a pious Jew. After praying, the Jew told him he would have a daughter within the year, but if a male sees her before she is married, she will die. Taken aback, the king decided he had no choice. Before the due date, he sent his wife to a beautiful but remote island. The queen raised the princess with the best physical, intellectual, and cultural training. The king contented himself with periodic reports. At eighteen, the king sent messengers to all the available princesses looking for a husband. When they heard that they could not see her before they were married, only one humble prince, a vassal to the king, stayed. The wedding began with no male present, and the bride heavily covered. Imagine the groom's relief and delight when he saw her beauty. Next, he worried that she was not bright, but she was. Then he fretted that she was maladjusted, which also was not true. After a time, he returned to his father-in-law, confessed his fears, begged his forgiveness for doubting him, and announced his intentions to throw a big party celebrating the marriage since the quiet, strange wedding didn't do her justice. So, too, with us. We did not realize the nature of the gem God gave us on Shavuot. Thus, we keep the wedding on Shavuot, but wait to rejoice until Simhat Torah.

The strange place of Shavuot teaches us that it takes time and effort to submit first our bodies and then our minds to God. Only later do we rejoice in the good deal God gave us. Not bad, considering no group has been around for as long as the Jews, nor contributed as much to the world's civilization. Hag same-ah.

TI Mourns the loss of Ed Korus

Long time TI member, Ed Korus, recently passed away. Below are excerpts from the eulogy given by Howard Gordon.

Dear Andrew and Korus Family,

We express our sympathy on the loss of your beloved father. As you know, for us at Temple Israel, he, your mother Sondra, and you children were examples for the rest of us to try to emulate since we held you all in such high esteem.

As an example, my son Michael, who intended to become a physician, consulted with Gary about the process of selecting schools to apply to. Michael is now an orthopedic hand surgeon in Sarasota FL, with a wife and two daughters.

Your father also had a business relationship with my late wife, Lynne. I hope she was able to give him some good advice! As I get older I see the wisdom of our traditions – e.g. the annual Passover Seders with their message: gratitude for being delivered from slavery, respect for our freedom, etc. I see the value of parents teaching their children so the tradition can continue. Your parents did a great job of leading by example to make the world a better place.

Need a Ride to TIR?

TI Mourns the loss of Jack Coladner

It is with much sadness that we mourn the recent passing of Jack Coladner, longtime member of Temple Israel. Jack, in his quiet and unassuming way, was known to many congregants as a congenial and friendly guy, easy to talk to and get to know. He and his wife Roz were frequent congregants in years past, though not so much recently as their health declined. Jack will be missed at Temple Israel. In addition to Roz, he leaves behind a son, a daughter, and a number of grandchildren.

Jack was a man of several professions during his lifetime, most notably a Realtor. He was also an enthusiastic gardener and enjoyed feeding whatever wildlife came to his yard. He served in World War II in the army, one of the ever-dwindling number of those who are now survivors of that war. He was instrumental in liberating children from a concentration camp, and has a picture of himself drawn by one of those children. He was active in rescue efforts in France, as well. He brought to his service, as to everything he tackled in life, his sense of fairness and doing what was right. And he never bragged about his accomplishments, preferring to let them stand on their own.

Jack, you will be missed by all who knew you. Roz and family, our deepest condolences.

Our Judaica Shop

If you need Shabbat or holiday items for yourself, or for a gift, you will find them right in the Temple. Our Judaica Shop boasts a large inventory of beautiful items, many of them displayed in the Social Hall's glass cases. Kiddush cups, glass platters, Shabbat-To-Go, kipot, Seder and matzoh plates, menorahs, children's books and toys, cookbooks, and candlesticks are all there.

Phyllis Van Dyne operates the Temple's Shop, acquiring new items several times a year. She will also fill special orders; if you see something you'd like, she can get it for you. Or, if you need ideas for a gift, she will be happy to suggest something in your price range, perfect for your occasion and recipient. Philanthropy • Public Service • Volunteering

We know what it takes to make a strong
Jewish community.
Doing our job well is just the beginning.

We believe to be a good funeral director, you should serve the community in times of growth and happiness as well as times of grief. It's not surprising we've served the Jewish community for over 100 years. How we've served is the surprising part. David Rubin and his entire staff work tirelessly in serving the Jewish community, but then, that's part of our philosophy and tradition.

We believe to be a good funeral director, you should serve and give back to the community.
